Country	United States

Project Description

The VAntage Point blog (<https://www.blogs.va.gov/VAntage/>) is always publishing new stories about Veterans. This being the case, we are constant in need of new photos to use as featured images for our blog posts. This is where you come in. We are trying to build a team of people to search the Internet for high quality, copyright free images that we can use for our blog posts.

We will naturally need photos of Veterans during conflicts and using various weapons systems and platforms, but we may also need photos depicting various VA Medical Centers, cemeteries, monuments, Veteran programs, etc, etc. We will have more information for you on the types of photos we'll need once you are on board, but in general we need a large pool of graphics to draw from for all of the many types of posts you find on VAntage Point.
